Legacy mobiles

Current users of flip phones, Nokia 3310s (viva Snake II, right?) Motorola StarTAC's (4 lines of 15 characters!) and the like got a serious warning from the always interesting NBTC. The warning is, c'mon people, it's 2018 and 21st century phones don't get it in the smartphone, 4G era. The action was that Takorn Tantasith and the always entertaining lame-duck National Broadcasting and Telecommunications Commission (NBTC) tried to shut access for 94,625 DTAC accounts. At direct issue was DTAC's expiring licence for the 850MHz spectrum where 2G legacy mobile phones still live. The NBTC ordered access cut as of today.
