

THEY SAID IT*“I’D LIKE TO APOLOGISE TO EVERYONE. WE WERE DRUNK.”

Wanlop Nuchfaeng, 32, part of the gang which invaded a school, after being asked to keep their noise down at a nearby temple.

“THE STATE CAN CHECK PEOPLE. BUT THE PUBLIC CANNOT CHECK THE STATE.”

Commenter on an iLaw discussion on Twitter about the new Cybersecurity bill.

“IT WILL BE A HEADACHE AND A WASTE OF TIME.”

Gen (Ret) Prayut Chan-o-cha, prime minister, national aerobics instructor, head of the ruling military council (junta), domestic roadmap cartographer, candidate for prime minister, on the yucky thought of debating common politicians.

“WE WON’T BE ABLE TO DECIDE BEFORE MARCH 26.”

Wichian Thanompichai, director-general, Office of Criminal Litigation, on whether to prosecute Future Forward Party leader Thanathorn Juangroongruangkit for a Facebook post last June.

“IT’S FEAR, BECAUSE*NOBODY THOUGHT WE’D COME THIS FAR.”

Mr Thanathorn on why the regime is peppering him with legal charges.

“THAILAND’S SHIPMENTS BOTH TO PAKISTAN AND INDIA ARE MAINLY BY SHIP.”

Banjongjitt Angsusingh, director-general, International Trade Promotion Department, says exports will not be immediately affected by India-Pakistan hostilities.

“WE CAN CONTINUE WORKING.”

Somchai Sawaengkarn, whip, National Legislative Assembly, rejects calls for the NLA to step down.

“ALTHOUGH WE HAVE PEOPLE WHO VOLUNTEER TO SERVE, IT IS NOT ENOUGH,”

Lt Gen Khongcheep Tantravanich, spokesman, Ministry of Defence, on ending military conscription.

“THEY HAVE ALREADY USED ALL BANK LOANS.”

Takorn Tantasith, secretary-general, National Broadcasting and Telecommunications Commission, pleads for taxpayer subsidies for three mobile phone giants.